Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, March 2, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

Do you understand now why patience is a major virtue? Everything takes time, it is the key element of this life on Earth.

Time, in a way, doesn't exist for us, there lies the paradox, but we do have to call things by their name, as you define them with your reference points.

If you go through these 'confidences' again from the beginning, you see in them a whole process, a kind of preparation to lead you to think in a certain way and act differently, as we wish.

It's all about your story, the one that will follow you wherever you go, from now on.
