Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, March 9, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

You should not wander; you need to go ever deeper inside yourself. Such is your path, it runs counter to your nature which moves you to go towards others and to like human contacts. It's in this inner sanctuary that your destiny is realized. Some must overcome their nature in order to bring themselves out, and you, you must do the opposite.

Where you stand, you can understand these reasons perfectly. We want only your good and the blossoming of your soul, in this incarnation. Beyond your lack of performance on the physical level, you must see only that – what you achieve on the spiritual plane, there where you have every reason to rejoice.
