Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, March 11, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

For us, you're a lighthouse whose reach has no limit. That's what differentiates you from the beacons that mark port entrances and reefs. The light you reflect has a range that can't be measured. It knows its objectives and its targets. All this work is done almost without your knowledge. You suspect something like this but without really trying to know more; we appreciate that.

We're giving you this information to help you endure this isolation that weighs you down.

Be blessed.
