Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, March 22, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

Each being has a particular destiny. It is a path specific to each one, and which one must put up with – such is the infinite subtlety of divine laws. The mould is unique, at all levels; only the final destination is the same for all, whatever the complexity of the journey.

Meeting a high-level Master is a rare opportunity. One should not let one's chance slip away, but surrender one's heart completely when it recognizes, as true, the guide intended for it.

It's not always easy to have this discernment from the outset, but the thirsting soul does know that it has found the watering place that meets its expectation. Its jubilation is great and can only convince the aspirant to follow the path that suits it and will lead it where it aspires to go.

Babuji