Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, March 25, 2000 – 8:30 a.m.

You cannot deny that something is happening inside you. You are not in a position to evaluate it, but you must honour this presence with a positive and grateful thought. Life is change, evolution and upheaval; one has to expect anything and know how to adapt.

So will it be until the last day of your life. In the present case, we see you letting go and moving beyond doubt to get a little closer to surrender, viewing it as a test. You are a case study that we are observing, not under a microscope, but with a certain curiosity. Your reactions are distinctive – you are advancing in faith, keeping a reasonable eye on what happens to you and what surrounds you. Only your heart escapes this vigilance and can give its full measure, which is infinite.
