Sunday, March 5, 2000 – 8:30 a.m.

I will do all I possibly can to come towards you, but do you believe that from now on we need to be seated face to face to know each other better? All the barriers between us have been lifted.

You just have to plunge into yourself to find me.

We will try to consolidate this new relationship by meeting. You cannot travel and I am tired of travelling out of necessity. Let us for the moment make the most of these special contacts of the heart, and the future will decide about the next steps.

S.E.