Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, May 28, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

Don't complain about going through such trials, it is the law of evolution which manifests itself thus. It's an obligatory passage; the doctors do not necessarily understand the implications of this work and interpret them wrongly. That does not matter, you are advancing and your progress delights us.

You will soon glimpse your inner light and that will reassure you. You'll see that nothing is in vain.

Be in a state of utmost acceptance, more and more united with the Divine and detached, as much as possible, from material aspects.

We accompany you in all these events, even if that is not obvious.

Immerse yourself in the joy of the heart in spite of everything, with our blessings. You can call this series: Epilogue.
