Don't worry about all these things you don't understand; the human being is very complex. To have the Master within you is one state; being in the heart of Babuji is a grace; our cohabiting is another, and there is no contradiction in any of that. Aren't there "many abodes in the house of my Father"? We work on different planes that intersect each other since we are nonetheless in the same vibration.

As human beings, you can have several activities and many contacts without your lives being disorganized. It takes a given direction and you manage the situation. The more you advance, the more your horizon widens. It gives you access to different categories of actions. Your spiritual journey is balanced and promising. You are advancing under our benevolent eye and your soul is blooming harmoniously. Be at peace, all is for the best.
