Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, July 21, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

As regards what you are waiting for, you should wait forty-eight hours. Things are not so easy to organize. You are all headed towards difficult times on this aspect. What have liberties become in France? This negative and powerful force, which has been operating for a long time in the shadows, will manifest itself more and more if the French don't react. We have alluded several times to this problem without it striking a chord in any of you. It seemed derisory to you all.

This power, which has done so much harm in the past, could be reborn with all its vigour, to the misfortune of many who don't see the danger coming and who remain sceptical of our words.

Let us hope that common sense will prevail and that this religion, which has done so much harm in the past, will not resurface in all its power and its hatred against what doesn't resemble it.

Since you all cannot change the world as quickly as you would wish, take refuge in sadhana; no one can take it away from you.
