Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, August 8, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

We are preparing you for a constructive meeting. My son needs to see who you are, and also the love we have for you. Do not worry as you usually do; on that day, everything will go smoothly. At last, contact will be established between you, and you will stop standing in each other's way.

On the human level, you are alike in many respects – you are not easy to influence. Sooner or later, the 'historic' meeting will take place. Past and present will converge and memories of a distant life will resurface.

You are old acquaintances, yet these ancient bonds have so far not fostered a Master-disciple relationship.

The time has come to carry on regardless, and to achieve what must be. Meditate, my child, prepare yourself in your heart, intensely, for another stage of your life. If your dearest wish is still to serve us, you will have the opportunity to do so, more than you will be able to take on. It's up to you to act accordingly.

Babuji