Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, August 9, 2000 – 11:00 a.m.

There will be always detractors of the system, as well as critical minds around you and after you. You are doing what they cannot; they don't have access to the planes where you contact us, how could they understand? Fortunately, a certain number of individuals have enough broadmindedness to believe in you as well as in what you are receiving from us. Their faith is rewarded, these beings benefit from a special transmission. So will it be for those who, in the future, will lend credibility to this form of teaching. In time, it will actually be necessary to shed all light on this process. Religions will not be able indefinitely to have a monopoly on the spiritual domain; everyone must be able to drink from the source suited to them, without any dogmatic and constraining human interference. 'Life' is One, it is within the reach of all, far from sumptuous and complicated rituals. Times will come when light will have to prevail over the obscurantism fostered by powerful authorities. May you all continue on your way with dignity, in tolerance and utmost acceptance of differences of all sorts, thus setting an example of the purest faith.
