Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, August 28, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

This time, we're making headway; you are each progressing on your respective sides, animated, above all, by the desire to please me. The love that emanates from your hearts towards me touches me infinitely. Thanks to this love, we will end up bringing you where we wish.

You, my beloved son and daughter, are not easy to steer in the direction that we want.

That indicates a certain character on your part that we cannot reproach you for. It has been useful to you both in many life circumstances, particularly for my son, who is at the apotheosis of his life.

We don't complain that this personality which characterizes you makes our projects more difficult to accomplish, since – as we have just said – it is love that guides you and prompts you to do everything possible to please me.

This love is returned to you a hundredfold by all of us here, and if we have put you in parallel, it is simply because you have something to do together so that our plans, in a precise domain, are accomplished more favourably.

Babuji