Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, September 19, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

Our two hearts, as you know, are united for eternity. Yours knows how to rest lightly on mine and does not seek to appropriate it.

Its song delights mine and still amazes it. Every day, I listen to it and bless it. It has a special place; our relationship is uncommon and will not change.

I only ask of you one thing: look towards my son, don't exclude him from this song of love. You know how much he means to me. By looking towards each other, you would make me happy.

Tender souls will understand this exchange and will deeply feel it inside; this will be their reward. The others will miss it; never mind, this kind of beauty is not accessible to all.

All of you who value this speech, rejoice for your sister, who is striding forward.

We have not forgotten the anniversary of your birth. The road we've travelled since then merits a break, this statement confirming, if needed, this uncommon bond between two souls.
