The Medium: Babuji, I do not recognize myself, this detachment worries me.

You should not have to; it is normal that such a transformation on the spiritual plane results in changes of behaviour. Reducing one's life to the essential is not at all worrying.

Seeing one's fellow beings with a more clearsighted gaze is not necessarily pleasant, but you had no delusions about that, it seems to me. Compassion must develop in proportion to this awareness. This is how humankind is, and the Earth is an experimental field where all the species try to live, and for some, to survive. Hunger, insecurity and fear being the lot of a large portion of the beings populating this planet. The luckiest don't always realize what they have, and few of those care about the less fortunate. This incessant game is part of karmic law. Each one struggles in their own environment, hoping for better days and, for many, a hereafter suited to their beliefs. Fearing the future is not a good way of approaching it. No one escapes their destiny; what they have come for must be fulfilled to the end. Being in love and surrender is the best way of advancing in peace.

Never forget that we will follow you, no matter what happens, and that we will be waiting for you when the time comes.
