Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, October 22, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

Pure hearts will see in our relationship what must exist between a Master and his most fervent disciples. It is a relationship made of love, of understanding and, as far as you are concerned, a touching state of surrender that prompts indulgence. This is not common in our aspirants. Many are sincere and their efforts tend towards this state.

These efforts are an important element of their process. While innate in some people, others find it more difficult to attain, despite being very regular in their practice.

Each must follow their own path. To search with sincerity is a good way of uniting oneself with the inner Master by scrupulously following the instructions of the spiritual Master of your choice.

Our path can bring you all to the highest level, so have complete faith in your guide and advance with fervour and devotion towards the goal. You have all our encouragement for that and, above all, the help you need.

Be fervent and determined; faith cannot be tepid. If that is the case, you should review your objectives and act on them. Your efforts will be rewarded, it is for you yourselves that you are working. You have all our blessings.

Thus is this 'Epilogue' completed.

Babuji

God, give me such a love
That I no longer know where I am
That I be lost to myself
Against my own will
That yesterday mingles with today
That I would become only that desire
That no image satisfies
Take me, remove me from myself
And fill me finally with you.

– Yunus Emre