Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, October 31, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

You are trying, you make efforts to please us and to improve yourself; even if they are not all crowned with success, they are accomplished with all your heart. You have understood that no method, be it the best, could actually succeed without the active participation of the one concerned.

Where would the merit be without this dimension? When you all enter a way like ours, you already have a certain open mindedness that makes you want to go farther.

Your heart aspires to find harmony by going towards perfection. You have gone a long way in order to reach that point. Your inner Self has managed to guide you towards what suits it best. It's on the right track, it feels it and sometimes prompts you to advance, against your own wishes.

Sometimes you rebel – you all want to live, as you say, to enjoy yourselves, travel, laugh and sing. There is no incompatibility in this programme, your sadhana does not take you hours and we do not ask you to live a cloistered life.

Your life can be adjusted harmoniously, while you taste the joys of an in-depth spiritual process.

Our way doesn't exclude any aspect of a normal, working, familial and full life. You all know it, we have always insisted on this point.
