Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, November 5, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

The time spent on Earth seems to you too long, but it is only a short moment as compared to eternity. It is just enough to settle some accounts.

Make it productive, magnify every moment that you live, give it profound meaning and you will embellish your path.

Never lose sight of your objective; rise above the ugly sides of life. You cannot change everything in this world of outrageous materialism.

Make your contribution so that it evolves for the better. Beauty and purity exist; let yourself be carried by their beneficial vibrations, which come to counterbalance evil, making this earth habitable.

Visualize humanity transforming gradually. See only beauty, goodness and the sincere love of many people for the Divinity that governs the universe.

Cover the ugliness with beauty and generosity. May peace dwell in you, sustained by loving thoughts.

Love God, your Master and all the beings that are close to you. Love the many who struggle, who pray and cry out for help.

Think about all the unfortunate who live in physical and moral misery and do not have recourse to faith.

This deprivation is the most dreadful ordeal, since it does not allow for hope.

Babuji