Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, November 15, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

Yes, there is a hierarchy – beings of light, as you all call them, who help humanity and govern the subtle universe. Within the framework pertaining to them, they play a predominant role.

Every spiritual way is represented and structured so that on all planes, it is monitored at different levels.

We all work together, for the good of the created worlds. The Earth represents a concern, but it is not the only planet that poses problems for us in its evolutionary cycle.

Don't worry about this hierarchy. It is good you all know it exists, but it is not really as some people present it to you. Know that, there also, each one does what they are responsible for; that all this organization operates like perfectly tuned cogs; that love, this subtle energy, enlivens it to the highest degree; that discord, which characterizes Earthlings – even when they are on the same side – does not exist in this system.

Don't trouble yourselves about this organization; it is its concern to care about you as persons and as a group in which you all evolve. It works to create universal peace. That is all you need to know.
