Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 3, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

The veil lifts to let you catch a glimpse of reality. Don't let your heart panic; motivation comes to an aspirant when they are in front of the obstacle to overcome. We are close to you, attentive to your steps; there is nothing to fear. The force that attracts you is all-powerful; you cannot resist it.

That is how it goes when the march forward must take a different pace. Let yourself be carried along, look ahead and not behind you.

You will not regret having taken the plunge. You have put your utmost trust in us; you could not have placed it better.

When you reach a certain level, it is wise to take stock and to realize that the choice was sound as regards the most important step a human being can take, that is the spiritual path they have undertaken.

You have good Masters, as you were told. This 'natural path' which is ours is one of the best suited for people of today: not very demanding in practice, effective in terms of results. Does it not go in the direction of what our brothers and sisters here below are looking for? It is up to you to judge.
