Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, December 22, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

Day is dawning in your heart; a new life is starting.

Forget the past, put down your luggage. Look ahead, the road is clear. Smell the fragrance of eternity rising up.

Will you seize the opportunity given to you to make a big leap in time and space? All these remarks may seem strange to you, they resonate in you like new sounds.

Love him, love us, as you do so well. Let the echoes of this melody cradle your soul.

May your song accompany it and return to us. May your spirit rise above this world. Isolate yourself in this white paradise where many accents praise the Creator. See how easy it is to join in this song.

We want to lead you to take the steps that would make you see life with different eyes and fortify you in the face of adversity.

All is only illusion. All is relative. Move forward, forget the disappointments, they are merely wind-raised waves, an incessant breeze that leaves no trace.

We've said it often enough: love is the only thing that counts, it alone deserves its place.

Babuji