Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, December 25, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

To you my dear son, you can be satisfied at this year end, the balance sheet of the Mission as a whole is good. The usual worries have punctuated the days. You've spent your energy settling problems that are hard to manage, but you'll see the end of all these tribulations. More serene times are awaiting you. Only the positive aspects are to be recorded on this balance sheet. The Mission's anchor-points around the world are going to grow in number in the coming decade. Sound people will be in place in this set-up, who are motivated and determined to extol the dependability of the system as they have experienced it themselves. The future is not as gloomy as it might seem at the dawn of this century. People with a mission are waiting for the right moment to act and express themselves with faith.

May your heart be happy, we are more than satisfied. The day you come to enjoy a well-deserved rest, you will be met like the prophets who fully succeeded in their mission. Do not lose courage, my dear son, even though in certain countries that are close to your heart, the life of the Mission is becoming difficult. It will one day regain its noble recognition and you'll be able to rejoice.
