Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 31, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

Why do you think you are delirious? You are incorrigible. Maitreya is a great soul who works for the good of all humanity, without any distinction. He has cast his gaze on her who is at our service and who, through her gifts, contributes to collecting a particular teaching to which he fully adheres. He supports all that can contribute to the great divine project for the edification of the souls that pass through this world.

Be thankful for having received his blessings. As you can see, remarks coming from various sources lead to the same conclusions concerning you.

Follow your way, under the benevolent gaze of your Masters, you are arriving at the climax of your existence.

We appreciate your major qualities; do not worry about the rest, as you do your best to master what you don't like in yourself.

This end of the year brings special blessings to you and to those who surround you and whom you cherish.

Focus on our objective, which must become yours. You know what we are driving at; our projects must be realized against all odds.
