Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, February 1, 2001 – 10:00 a.m.

Think of better days. Forget your body, at least during this contact. A solution will be found to help you with this particular problem.

We know we can talk to you in that way; your body is the best tool for your evolution. It makes you move forward with great strides under our control and protection. Our love carries you in a certain way, but the ground where you must walk is rough.

Your years of rebellion are far behind you; you have understood the reason for the heavy burden you must bear. When your Earthly journey is over, you will be grateful to us for all that you will have had to endure.

The more you advance in life, the better you understand certain divine laws that are not very realistic for human beings.

Whether ordeals are visible or hidden, they are trying for whoever undergoes them. Only the inner attitude can alleviate the effects.

The tragedy of human beings is to have to endure, in their bodies and hearts, all the tragedies of the world, adjusted to their own fate.
