Monday, February 5, 2001 – 10:00 a.m.

This birth anniversary celebration has refreshed the Earth, like a beneficent rain. This day was chosen and predestined, as we have already mentioned. This is why it is unfortunate to shift it, as was the case for other great Beings, the day when their coming to the Earth is celebrated. It must remain in the planned vibratory context, which is beneficial to humanity.

Even though astrology, as you all know it, is not correct, a universal order regulates life and the movement of the planets in minutest details that have their importance. The birth of a divine being is planned well in advance. The successors are of the same lineage, chosen and sent in due course.

Nothing is left to chance, according to the meaning you all give this word. A well-established order is at the origin of the world, and it can be felt in all the manifestations that tend to maintain the harmony of the universe. Without it, there would be chaos. Creatures that are born on Earth, whatever their species, are born according to a foreseen and regulated plan.

Without this mathematically governed balance, there would be complete anarchy in creation.

From the infinitely small to the infinitely large, the creative impulse is governed by very strict laws.
