Wednesday, February 7, 2001 – 4:30 p.m.

We cannot abuse our medium's strength. What's important is that you can communicate with your Divine Master.

How I wish I could still be close to you, with the state of mind I have now!

I would understand you better, and so I'd be able to help you more, but that's the way it is. My time on Earth was over and you must continue alone, as planned.

Be assured, you are doing everything that's necessary, and you cannot solve everything. What you must endure for the settlement of this never-ending succession, you would not want to see inflicted on your successor. This is very commendable of you.

If keeping the arrangements you have already made can put your mind at ease, don't hesitate to do so.

Time will settle this matter and take away this worry.

Do not fear for the future; this is what your Beloved entrusts me to tell you.

With my unfailing love,

Sulochana