Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, February 8, 2001 – 8:00 a.m.

My dear daughter, you have grown spiritually since the start of our long march together. Many messages have accumulated, illustrating this journey. We prepared you to reach this level of ease. Believe me, these writings are already appreciated and will be increasingly so by an elite able to discern in them all the importance they represent. For future generations, this mode of communication will find the favour it deserves. Minds will increasingly open up, becoming receptive to the irrational. They will seek to delve deeper into all that has been hidden from them and ridiculed.

They will be able to tell the difference between what is right and what is deceit, which is not lacking when it comes to this field. The obscurantism of past centuries, sustained by religions, will give way to a greater lucidity on many subjects. True values will be better respected and give meaning to the lives of countless people struggling with the terrible realities of life on this planet. In this context, spiritual search will finally have its rightful place.
