Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, February 17, 2001 – 10:00 a.m.

Take life as a bouquet of flowers, with varied colours and subtle perfume. See this bouquet as the outcome of a lengthy work of nature and, regarding the flowers grown, the countless human efforts for these flowers to appear in all their perfection.

They offer the best of themselves, and for a limited period of time – so much effort was needed to get there! All this beauty, offered to the Creator's glory, also delights the human heart.

This final beauty is an apotheosis and the fruit of a prolonged labour.

Thus, after a soul has travelled all the paths of life, weathered all the storms and sometimes burnt its wings in the fire of passions, it finally shows itself in all its glory before immersing itself in the deepest depths of the divine flood. It recovers its true place and acquires its real stature.

This movement is incessant; the highest and purest cosmic forces are continuously active, as is all that exists in the universe.

The road is long, it requires much effort. Don't let this law discourage you – it also has its amenities, and the result is truly worth the effort! Trust your Masters, who know what they are doing; they are the best possible gardeners.
