Monday, February 12, 2001 – 11:45 a.m.

You do understand that I can't express myself in this way by common means. Our soul bond is very special, it cannot be translated in human words. No matter, what counts is that together we serve, each in our own way, the One who is everything to us.

Isn't his love and the gratitude he shows us the best thing that can happen to us?

One day, when you have decided, you will put at my disposal the largest number of messages in your possession.

We will thus have taken a great step forward, and our heartbond will be strengthened. We will be able to commune in the joy of going through these writings inspired by the Beloved.

What we share is an immeasurable grace, are you aware of it?

I admire this gift I don't have. Be happy, oh so happy, to have it. We'll meet more often this way, if you would like to. Our two hearts can pour out in this way, without any constraints.

Continue this work with faith and love, as you are doing. You make us happy by establishing this unique link between the three of us.

Free yourself as much as possible from your doubts and from your fears of not understanding and serving correctly.

You're not a machine, and you're putting your heart and soul into this particular job. Be confident and finally realize what you bring to us.

Thank us for your heart's two chosen ones, who are also ours. They show so much ardour in serving us that we are touched by it.

Please pass this paragraph on to them if you see fit. That way they will have an echo of our gratitude.

See you soon, in a more formal manner.

S.E.