Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, February 25, 2001 – 6:00 p.m.

My dear daughter, we would now like to start giving you messages having a totally different content. Scientists very often go astray in their assertions. In a century, these will be outdated. Human beings will have taken a step forward in their understanding of the laws governing the Universe. These will then become obvious to a great number of minds capable of understanding their real meaning.

Major transformations will take place on the terrestrial globe after great upheavals have occurred. The best-established structures will be disrupted and the elements will make life difficult for human beings, who will have to face up to things. Another race, more resistant and with a highly developed sense of extrasensory perception, will set up a world that would astonish most people living today.

The poles, having reversed, will generate a significant climatic change. People will need to adapt. A large part of the population, in its present proportions, will have disappeared. The Earth will start a new era, more in keeping with its evolution. We will further elaborate on some of the topics mentioned, and you will have to note down, without asking too many questions, even though you cannot verify the accuracy of what you are writing. These predictions should neither worry nor embarrass you. They do not concern the present day, and much time will pass before all we put forward happens.

You will need to trust us and leave your usual doubts aside.

These writings will long remain in oblivion before they come to light.

So, if it suits you to consider them as fiction, we have no objection.
Be at ease, you are not under the influence of some devious spirit.
We will resume tomorrow the normal course of our talks.
Be at peace. Be blessed.

Babuji
