Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, April 8, 2001 – 8:00 a.m.

To answer your question, my daughter, the world where we live is not easy for you to imagine. We will only refer to the relational aspect between beings. Envy, jealousy and hatred are abolished. Brotherhood, tolerance and understanding are therein the prelude to love.

The quest for perfection is constant; the aspiration to remain united with the Divine is integrated into our cellular life. We vibrate in the same subtle energy. A constant celestial harmonic unifies our songs. We love from one and the same heart and see only the beauty and purity of the place.

Our gratitude towards the Creator is boundless, equalled only by our incommensurable love.

To return to worlds in pain is painful for us and vibrationally gruelling.

What more can we say? We won't be able to truly enjoy the delights of this world as long as our human brothers and sisters, or those evolving on other planets and subjected to almost unbearable ways of life, are not freed from their chains.

Our primary goal is this: the moment of deliverance for all God's creatures.
