Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, November 25, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

We repeat ourselves, we have to; human beings forget easily, it is one of their characteristics. Compared to the mass of information that hits them, they retain little. A kind of natural selection takes place within them and most often they retain what suits them. As far as you all are concerned, you cannot retain everything that is said in our books and speeches. A few key points have struck you, and you are imbued with the spirit that emanates from the whole. The fact that you are following this path indicates a deep and sincere call of the heart, so you are already in a category apart. Time and the work being done within you facilitate a fairly broad open-mindedness towards all concerning the spiritual. Even if the information does not remain present in your thought, it nourishes you deeply.

Reread our teachings; over the years, you will make new discoveries that did not strike you on the first reading: 'the truth' will appear to you. You will be surprised to have missed what you are discovering now. In this you'll be able to see the sign of your progress and how far you have all come.
