Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, November 15, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

The events occurring in your lives are the milestones that mark your path. In themselves they are not important; it is the way you all react that shapes your spiritual personality.

A challenge successfully overcome and accepted is very formative. Do not worry about all that can happen to you; live in the present and above all in a state of surrender – we will never say it enough. You cannot change anything regarding your destiny, that of your country or the Earth. You are confronted with an equation that you cannot resolve.

The fate of humanity is not in your hands. You can direct the details of your lives, but in broad terms, you are often powerless to control the events that take place. For the essential, surrender to the Divine, to your Master, to your Masters. Is it not reassuring for you to know that, even if you are alone in the world, you are not ignored and forgotten? The force of destiny manifests itself to you sometimes in all its power and leaves you dumbfounded. Be ready at all times to accept what you deemed unacceptable. Trust blindly in the Almighty; that will be your greatest strength.
