Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, January 26, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

Let love be the centre point of your lives, all your actions can start from it. This underlying driving force can only make each of you act in the right way. Thus bad thoughts, resentment, even hatred and its trail of harmful actions will be kept at bay.

Love will embellish your life; you will all see those who are in your circle in a better light. You will look at nature and its wonders, the whole of creation, with a feeling of gratitude. This will make you feel joy, and your life will be transformed from the inside. On the outside, it will remain what it is, but you will strive to see it as better and also consider only the good side in each being around you.

With this vision of the world, you will help cleanse it.

Your positive thoughts will counterbalance everything that needs to change and evolve to go towards a better world.
