Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, November 18, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

Advance on this path of surrender. Complete availability is important, work particularly on this state. You have agreed to listen to us as much as is necessary, and we use your gifts. Your role is enviable, but you have understood for a long time that service was the key word.

Each abhyasi within the Mission can find their place in this domain. There is no shortage of activities where their abilities can be used.

The smallest action is useful and beneficial to the person concerned. The Mission needs acts of goodwill and they are all appreciated. There are neither small nor large roles, there is being of service, the availability of the heart being the essential element in this matter.

Never have the impression of being on the sidelines in this vast organization, the need for action always finds a way to be expressed.

If so, there is no cause for any of you to feel excluded. To actively participate in all spiritual events is a considerable commitment for you, as well as for the whole group.
