The 'garden of flowers' is within you, my child, don't forget it! Grace abounds there at each step. Feed yourself with it. Your soul wishes for it with fervour; only these moments can make you forget your pain. Here, nothing else matters: sufferings and solitude are abolished. This flame maintained in you is immortal. It connects you to life, a life that is not subjected to the fluctuations of time.

"Let your heart abandon itself to its keenest tendency, it finds in it its strength and its determination to serve as much as possible. Let yourself be guided, trustful and surrendered to the higher powers; that's how we love you even more. Be only focused on the beacon of your life here below: your Master. He is showing a way, which will not disappoint you. This is illustrated by your current contacts; they are fostered and facilitated by soul-to-soul ties.

"Find joy again. See beauty only, the positive side of life, creation in its sublime aspects, in the forces it moves. Keep the heart of a child, which opens ours to you. How could they resist so much faith and love, offered so generously! Be happy, my child, you are not wasting your time on Earth, quite the contrary. Don't you sow flowers every day along your way!

"These messages will help many hearts in distress. There are so many of them—you can believe us—who will find a few moments of comfort by reading them. Allow joy to blossom again, as we ask you to. You cannot leave this work unfinished. Some more pages have yet to be added to it before concluding.

"Be blessed."
