The communion of souls having the same spiritual identity contributes to the elevation of humanity. It is the case with our way, and that is the reason for its existence—its raison d'être. A current like ours plays its role in the transformation of the world. Its expansion has no other goal than this one. Divine laws apply in many ways; we are an example of that.

"On Earth, all is set up slowly, according to the movement of this planet and its vibratory level regulating all aspects of life. Worlds have their completely different characteristics in most cases, hence the difficulty for Earthmen in identifying life beyond their own sphere. Their knowledge is limited to this one; they are not privileged in the current state of evolution to determine the plurality of the worlds and what characterizes them. The whole creation makes light of men's limited knowledge. It holds great surprises for them. In future times the face of the world will have completely changed for the good of all and, by extension, for all those who are currently suffering from the aberrations of humans that endanger a whole balance necessary to life.

"The movement is irreversible; nothing will stop here below this frantic process of polluting and destroying on the pretext of modernizing and producing on a large scale. Sooner or later errors must be paid for; this civilization is going too far in terms of excess. A brutal brake will be put on this destructive system—it is in the nature of things."
