Wednesday, April 19, 2000 - 8:00 AM

Breaking Earthly ties, once one's mission has been accomplished and rejoins one's Revered Master, is a joy without equal. It replaces moral and physical suffering, as well as exile. All these notions do not resist, for a long time, the happiness of rejoining Him who represents all.

"Thank you, my dear daughter, for taking part, as you are doing, in this commemorative day, which was for me, one of the most beautiful and the ultimate reward of this incarnation.

"This kind of relation lasts eternally. Master and disciple are bound together by so strong and therefore indestructible ties. Everything I did was meant to please him and thus, express my love to him. This love can be understood only if it is experienced in all its divine power.

"Seeing one's Master satisfied and happy for the work accomplished—is there anything more beautiful than that?

"Good meditation, I will come as agreed."

Babuji