We will not overburden you today; you need to take stock. We know what these contacts represent for you; you are devoting all your soul to them. To serve us is your reason for living and we appreciate your unfailing availability. Often, human beings change and even disavow what they adored. Your perseverance is exemplary; the choice of our messenger was judicious.

"Some mediums left writings widely read and appreciated by many readers, until today. These messages are universal and they help many souls in distress that are caught in the torments of life.

"Ours go well beyond the mission of our spiritual way, they will also help a large audience when times come. They are not moralistic, in the religious sense of the word. They represent a help that can touch each human being faced with life and the ordeals thereof.

"We try to shed a judicious light on certain behaviours that are degrading for man who will have, at some point of his existence to take an inward look at and take stock of himself. Nobody can escape this introspection."
