Friday, March 30, 2001 - 8:00 AM

My son is reassured, more than that, he is happy. It is important for him to feel that he is appreciated and approved in his decisions. Like any human being, he refers to a model that he admires and, in the present situation, that he loves. Our relation fits into a special category.

"A Master of his calibre is not an ordinary human being. He is characterized by a special vibratory nature, which places him well above his fellow creatures. He takes the life of Masters who preceded him as reference. He is out of the ordinary, but he must live among his brothers in all humility.

"Other human beings cannot notice these differences. Our aspirants credit him with powers he does not have, but they miss his true capabilities, which are not really perceptible to ordinary man.

"A very high level Master is reincarnated to help humanity, but he does not expect anything in return. He is understood and loved by a very small number of his disciples who are completely devoted to him. The latter are pure hearts that have understood what that man, seemingly identical to themselves, concealed in terms of actual greatness. Happy are those who can notice and respect it. These privileged souls vibrate in unison with the incarnated divinity."

Babuji