Gradually, my son's heart will be at peace. It is no easy task to live, it is the lot of each person, but a being with a high spiritual realization is especially receptive, and is struck full-force by virulent attacks directed against him. They are unavoidable; we cannot protect him from these kinds of manifestations. It is necessary to exorcise the evil by letting it appear, as is the case for these ignominious criticisms that will go down in history. Words are not enough to qualify such acts; it is necessary to turn away from them and let light clean, with its beneficial rays, all these drearily human miasmas. Purity and beauty also exist among humans; fortunately all do not have such unhealthy impulses. It is a sickness that constantly appears among some beings and is not easy to heal.

"Let us only see the beauty and the good, which fortunately are very widespread. May the mass of beings who advance in faith, love and honesty, not be forgotten because of this sad affair. They are supported and helped, as is proper."
