Your progress towards each other, my son and you, makes me happy. You are bound in this matter of the messages, which is close to my heart. With them, a different light is shed on our teaching.

"We cannot go further in the topics mentioned therein, for they must be convenient to the largest number.

"My son does not expect to discover such a wealth of writings. He will have, first of all, to acquaint himself with this series called 'Reflections' which summarizes well the totality of those messages. Everyone will do whatever is feasible in this business, to give him satisfaction, but it will take time to settle it as per his wishes.

"We communicate in the French language, which does not pose any problem. Where we are, these kinds of barriers do not exist. You see, my daughter, what can be obtained through perseverance; you can be satisfied with the result of your work.

"Your associates will have a lot to do. We trust them. We doubt neither their courage nor their integrity.

"Blessings to all of you."
