Thursday, April 17, 2003 - 10:00 AM

Our abhyasi brothers and sisters are not alone in their process, they have a living Master who accompanies them and helps them at the highest level. This fact is of the highest importance, and they should not lose sight of it. It is obvious that one's Master should be venerated. What could be more natural than trying to return to him, however little, a bit of the love that he hands out so generously to the souls left in his care!

"This exchange is in keeping with cosmic laws supporting the communion of souls that are longing for being divinely united in order to go towards the desired source. The way is long and fraught with difficulties, which the most sincere in their process and the most motivated cannot surmount without help. Until the end, the Master is and remains the most reliable guide towards the attainment of the goal.

"Our candidates should never lose sight of this aspect of the sadhana. We have repeated it many times, but some of our brothers end up forgetting it and decide to pursue the way alone, which had started so well. We cannot go against their choice, but only sadly note the fact. Our way is free and open in many respects. We do not impose anything, except the fact of complying with some elementary rules. Then, it is up to each one to make choices according to their motivations. The Sahaj Marg Mission too goes on its way which is predefined and whose light will become increasingly necessary to humanity."

Babuji