No, the source has not dried up yet. We will complete this page, as per your consent. Whenever you lose heart, think of my son, your Master, who also must drain himself of strength to fulfil his mission on Earth.

"That is how it is for each one of you. At a certain stage in your life, lassitude can come and you can be subjected to it. It is only human; you need strong motivations to overcome it; it takes an act of faith to arrive at it.

"You must honour your contract whatever the role you may have to play. We have already said it: there are no small roles, each human being has his place here below and is part and parcel of a whole made up of seemingly dissimilar elements.

"It does not matter what an individual seems to represent; he has a reason to exist. The Creator placed him where he must be and he must do that which he came for. It does not rest on any of you to judge if such-and-such an individual is important, since the way you do it is not right. Your assessments and your reference points are distorted; therefore you should try to rise above human reasoning so as to gain in stature."
