Sunday, August 24, 2003 - 3:30 PM

Once again, these remarks are not actually directed to my son, but needless to say that he gets from us the best deal. In a way, each line of these messages is dedicated to him; isn't he the Master, i.e., the very heart of the Sahaj Marg Mission placed under his high responsibility! Our blessings carry and inspire him. He is the brain that acts and he has full control over the situation. His heart is under the light of a thousand suns, turning towards the strategic point which he represents, and the importance of which humans are not aware of. The complexity of a high level spiritual Master goes well beyond that of an ordinary human being. We will not go into an area in which we cannot venture here, because of the risk of entering a domain that in some respects is beyond science fiction stories.

"His heart is permanently connected to ours. He is living on Earth in a body of flesh, his current vehicle, but another of his dimensions is working here for us, far from the miasmas of this world. His mission here below can seem heavy to him, but it is necessary and he knows it. We are expecting a successful outcome of all aspects of his tour.

"On this day, my dear son, we wanted to speak to you more personally, after having cast this kind of light on an ignored aspect of your high mission. There would be so much to say on the issue, but we cannot elaborate more. Carry on, on your road, my dear son, under the fires of our love."

Babuji