Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fourth Revelation

Sunday, January 16, 2000 - 8:00 a.m.

We like motivated people, active, who are not afraid of hard work and who can be fully committed. The Mission needs such personalities. A building cannot be erected simply by looking; only once it is built can it be looked at, admired and maintained. It attracts insofar as its size and its power impress.

"The main door is large, open to all and allows them to follow a way which leads to discovering a holy place. The best guide makes them advance and avoid the pitfalls, giving them reason to hope that they will reach the bank and discover the splendour of the place.

"Do you feel like engaging in this work, in spite of the perseverance and the few efforts it requires? So, it is up to you only to embark on it without looking back, advancing with your head high, full of ardour and faith; you will not regret it.

"It is time to get rid of your rags, to free yourselves from any hindrance to your progress towards the glorious goal of the journey, only dressed in your bodies of light.

"The more you advance on the way we have just mentioned and the easier your moving into another world becomes, the veil lifts by itself; you have already done most of the work. You take the plunge by going into a profound meditation, as you are used to doing and that poses no problem.

"Continue to advance in this exercise; meditate as much as you can. Deepen your sadhana, as of now, to taste the joys of a true meditation. You will thus enrich your present and future lives. There will remain no obstacle any more between the two.

"After your transition, a period of rest and reflecting assessments, you will be able to take another road to go further and higher. Choices will be proposed to you, and it will be yours to choose with full knowledge of the facts, but all that is far off. You still have a lot to do here below. We wanted only to answer as much as possible the questions you have raised."
