Wednesday, September 10, 2003 - 10:00 AM

It is good to see your hearts united together to sing the praise of a one chosen by God who is so dear to them. Your love for me, my daughter, does not prevent your heart from being besieged by love that your Master inspires more and more in you. He has managed to open a secret door that was only awaiting him, to give free rein to this burning flow, restrained for too long a time.

"Follow your Master in greatest surrender. Your heart only aspires to that: loving him infinitely. Don't resist living this mystical adventure; it is exemplary. Not everybody can do what you are doing with your gifts. Thank God, my child, what you are living is exceptional. Your sufferings have refined your vibrations to such an extent that they allow these non-ordinary contacts."

"You cannot know to what extent [we are satisfied]. Finally, the powerful waves of divine love can uplift your hearts harmoniously towards the same prospect. When you leave this world, you will have an outline of what is true love at its highest level of expression.

"Enjoy the power that at this moment makes your heart rise with joy. It will compensate that which you are losing in doing this work by using your physical strengths. You don't take this aspect into consideration; only serving is important to you. You are thinking of your Master, who also pushes himself to the limit, in the same spirit.

"May our love fill your heart with joy. Be blessed, my child."

Babuji