Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fourth Revelation

Monday, January 17, 2000 - 8:00 a.m.

You all are alike as human beings: you are born, you live and you leave this Earth. You are neither superior nor inferior to anyone else. You become incarnate according to the will of the Creator and you must do what you came here for.

"What matters is to do the work by achieving exactly what is programmed. To make a success of one's incarnation is commendable; try to devote yourself to that, you will then be able to peacefully leave towards other horizons.

"Life is a series of new beginnings that can seem tiresome; tragedies and joys punctuate it alternately. By setting the goal to be attained for yourselves, you give it a meaning, a more or less strong motivation that makes you move on. It is the best driving force that can propel you out of monotony.

"Become adult, by growing truly. Some of you remain children all your lives. To keep enthusiasm, the freshness of the soul of childhood is a good thing, but it is the adult in utmost maturity that must act and express himself to continue until the end of his Earthly path."
