Thursday, September 25, 2003 - 10:00 AM

My dear son,

"You must continue to work for this Mission which is so dear to us all. At its current stage of development, only you can manage the situation in a constructive way. Your experience is supreme. You have learned over the years how to better make out those who surround you, and your perceptions have made your vision of the world widen considerably. Nothing is ever simple on this Earth: the human beings are changing and prudence is essential in choices that are made concerning the supervisory bodies.

"You are doing your best, as usual, and your influence gives to our way all the importance it deserves. You are the right man for the job, the uncontested, appreciated and loved Master. The span of your aura is larger than what you can imagine. May you continue, for some more time, to set up what must be established, in view of the future when our way will be integrated in a highly spiritualized system of thought.

"This planet is nearing a transitional period of its evolution. Our Mission must play its role in this context, even though at present its voice does not rise very high, not as high as we would wish.

"There is a time for everything. We wanted once more to express to you our satisfaction. We accompany you in many ways, my dear son. Our blessings are permanent. May they move you up always further, until the zenith where your reserved place is waiting for you. You have all our love."

Babuji