We have not trusted you over these many years in vain. You do exactly what we expect you to do, do not worry about it. This work will one day bear all its fruits, well beyond what you can imagine. You carry it out in the greatest surrender, with sincerity, while appreciating to remain in obscurity, like a good and discreet servant, whose heart is protected from the turbulences of the world in its forced retreat.

"More and more human beings, conditioned by a stressful way of life, will seek in this kind of reading the simplicity that will provide them with an easy understanding. Helped in that by a special vibration emanating from these writings, they will grasp all the better, the profound meaning of our remarks. By progressing in accordance with the plans designed for this planet, our aspirants will leave the spiritual influence under which they are, and they will go further into the discovery of their true nature.

"Our way is preparing them towards that. It is able to meet all the needs of these hearts who are in need. Without currently knowing yet what their efforts are exactly aiming at, they deeply feel a call, which will keep growing. We are making every effort so that they can find in our system the answers to their questionings. Its simplicity will suit them; they will feel beyond it the real assistance they can get from it. The future will see the curtain of ignorance rising, which will make it possible for humans to glimpse a truth concealed for too long a period."
