It took a rather long time of preparation to arrive at this apparent easiness with which these messages are taken. On the other hand, the 'correspondence' required another state of mind, as the matter was different. All seems to be well designed now; only the demand of the hearts concerned will maintain the principle.

"We are here in a special context that would amaze many of our brothers, and yet a Master of the calibre of my son has capabilities, which common mortals do not have. His action not being limited to this Earth, why could he not communicate in spirit with the medium willing to serve him well? A bond of souls was necessary in this business: those that are discovered out of this world, when human barriers are broken down. The facts are that these contacts actually exist between both your hearts; everything having been so programmed a long time back. Suspicious and ignorant people may think of them what they want. All the truth about it will be brought to light one day on the Earth, and this situation will be considered completely normal for those who will read these very beautiful messages dedicated to divine love--inspired, as they are. Such is the divine will! They will be a prime reading for hearts having reached a certain level of evolution.

"These writings are sacred. This should not be forgotten. Both their form and spirit are to be respected. Their due importance will be recognized in the future. May those who have the privilege to benefit from them, realize what they are offered."
